Opening Day was a time for new encounters and old friends, as well as general readjustment to the idea of classes. After three months of vacation, students looked forward to school with mixed emotions: some joyous, some regretful, and some downright fearful.

Varsity Football

To most observers, the 1977 football season was to be a down year for the Cajun football program. They were adjusting to a new coaching staff, they had lost most of their starters due to graduation, and they lacked an abundance of size and speed.

When practice started, the team began to believe in an up year, and as hard work, courage, and determination became habit, the seniors began to provide the motivation and leadership the younger players needed in order to progress. At this time a strong foundation was laid, one that was to carry them through many tough breaks and anxious moments.

Because of their hard work and preparation, they were able to reach many team and individual goals. They broke or tied many school records, such as most wins in a season, most consecutive wins in a season, total offense, and many others. Most importantly, they reached the state playoffs for only the second time in the school's history. In addition to this, they played four games in the Sugar Bowl (Tulane) Stadium, and they won them all.

The 1977 Cajuns should not be remembered for these team and individual feats, however, but because they exhibited courage and discipline and worked extremely hard to accomplish what most thought impossible. They believed in themselves and became achievers and will carry this attitude with them always. They also left a permanent mark on Country Day Football and set a precedent of believing in themselves that future teams will be proud to follow.

As the heat and showers of August are a tradition in New Orleans, so are summer volleyball practices. The Cajun team began an extensive program of conditioning, weight training, and the perfection of power volleyball skills in a young squad. Programs of weight training and conditioning are to athletes as motor oil is to a fine car.

Without them, a player will not get maximum efficiency from her muscular and cardiovascular systems. Incorporated into our conditioning program was a daily battery of nationally proven stretching exercises to lower the incidence of injury in a squad. Without the development of the whole body, the girl will not be capable of enduring a three game match late in the season.

Participation in volleyball has grown over the years, this year was no exception. Varsity and Junior varsity participants totaled 40. Girls from all classes were represented as were varying degrees of skill.

Selection of team members was a difficult coaching decision. Does one keep a class together regardless of experience, skill, and social interaction? Or does one's membership of a team indicate where her level of performance is and her potential to be a successful contributor to the C.D. volleyball program? For the first time the varsity team represented three classes and various years of experience. One senior in her fourth year, juniors in their third year, sophomores in their second year and a sophomore and a junior in their first year completed our pre-season experience.

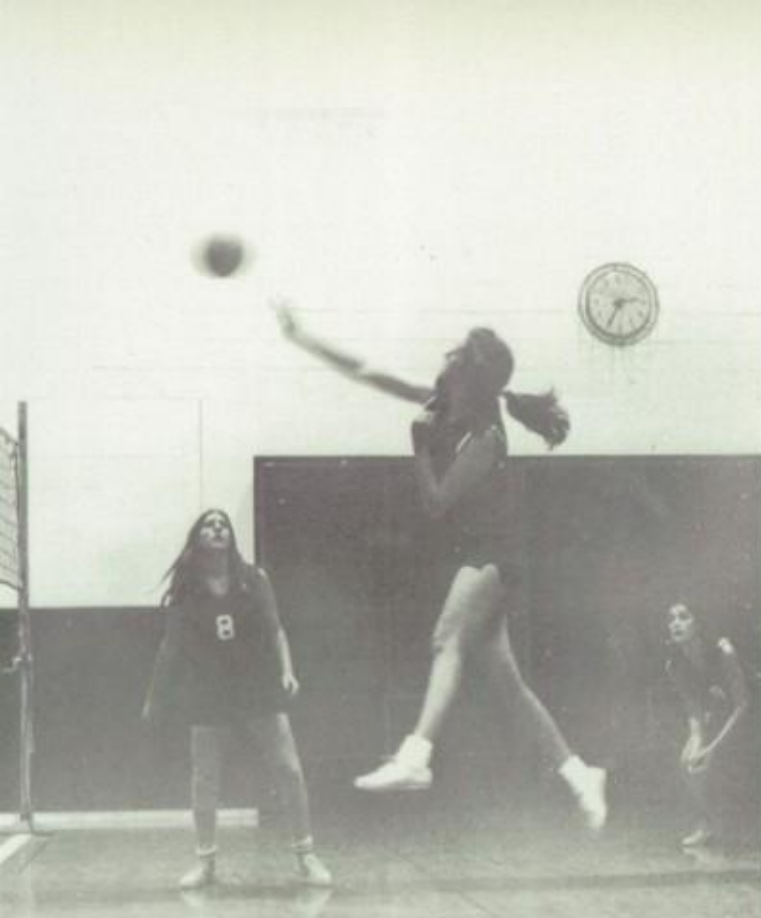

Power volleyball employs various systems of play; several were taught: the basic four-two offense, where there is always a setter and two spikers on the first row, the five-one which employs one setter who will be a back row setter until she rotates to a front row position, and finally the ultimate 6-2 which means that at any given time the Cajuns would have 3 spikers in the front and the setter moving from the back row. Various systems, confusing to some, simple to others.

When the season's schedule was published it became obvious that the Cajun team had a tough road ahead. The opener was an all day, four match tournament at Andrew Jackson High School. Episcopal of Baton Rouge, New Iberia, Grand Couteau, and Baker were our opponents. Record for the day: a grim one win, three losses.

Grace King, a worthy Quad-A opponent, gave the Cajuns an opportunity to bring the season record to 2-3, but with a high percentage of serving and passing errors, the young Cajuns let the win slip by, 15-5; 15-9.

The Ivy League began with a night opener against St. Martins. The rivalry filled the gym with excited students, parents, and many a curious visitor. The pressure grew with each point. The Cajuns let the match slip away in two games. (15-11; 15-6)

Disappointing performances were registered against Andrew Jackson (AAAA) (15-3; 15-9; 15-5); McGehee (AA) (15-1, 16-14); Ehret (AAAA) (7-15; 17-15; 15-10); Bonnabel (AAAA) (15-7; 15-12); and Kehoe (A) (15-12; 15-12).

The Cajun offense and defense was fearsome in matches against Redemptorist (AA) (15-6; 15-5), an error-free performance, Ganus (B) (15-7; 15-13) and Newman (AA) (15-10; 15-12), three victories which demonstrated that the team could put all its skills together.

The Regional draw inspired the Cajuns to impeccable performances. Three victories, over a weak and inexperienced Stuart, a very competitive and highly challenging Lutheran, and Kehoe. A challenge and an accomplishment by a team whose performance had been sporadic all season.

With a regional win came the opportunity for a berth in the state finals, a trip to New Iberia, and a possible state championship: a star to shoot for. The tournament draw placed the Cajuns against the ever-threatening Leonville. For several years the Cajuns had barely defeated Leonville, but because of inexperience and the first year jitters of many players, Leonville offered a greater threat this year. The match began with service errors by both squads. Pre-game jitters gone, the Cajuns settled down to a point-for-point battle against the Leonville squad. The Cajuns were fighting the best defensive squad they had met all season. The Leonville block was threatening to any offense and overwhelmed the young, inexperienced Cajuns. We could not penetrate the block; our offense failed. The Cajuns lost in two games to the eventual State Champions. (15-7; 15-10)

A tear was shed but heads were held high for we as a youthful squad were the sixth CD team to appear in the state finals. Many others have never been to the finals, and we, the Country Day Cajuns, will surely be back again.

Prep Quiz Bowl

Country Day again participated in the WYES Prep Quiz Bowl Show this year. After several tryouts held by Harlan MacFadden and Sherill McCutchen, this year's team was chosen from a group of juniors and seniors who then practiced several times a week in preparation for the competition. Unfortunately, the first opponents were a quick and seasoned team, but at least the members of our team had a good time.

The Senior Tapperettes: From top and bottom: Liz Williams, Sheri Bye, Patty Behre, Chris Katsirubas, Sherry Levy, Jan Norman, Muir Bradburn, Arden Conover, Meg Leake. Missing From Picture: Carrie Lee Pierson, Kitty Loomis.

The Tapperettes are a group of talented, dedicated, and fun-loving girls. Each year, they dance in various special programs, and most of all, their famed Fall and Spring tours. It is these tours to various elementary schools for which the Tapperettes are most noted. The history of the Tapperettes began as a performance for A Thurber Carnival in 1974 in which the famous "military" tap dance was performed. With a successful dance revue and the idea of "Touring" the schools, a carry over from Miss "N's" college days, the Tapperettes organized their Fall Tour in November of 1974, the first of many to come.

The Tapperettes Choreographer, Coach, and Leader:

Susan Nesanovich

Sensational

This year's tour, on November 11, included the favorite selections from Mary Poppins, and "There's No Business Like Show Business": Introduction ("No Business"), "Spoonful of Sugar," "Feed the Birds," "Jolly Holiday", "Let's go Fly a Kite", "Step in Time", "Chim-chim-cheree", and the Finale, a combination of all these dances. The schools that the Tapperettes toured this year were the Academy of Sacred Heart, Wilson School, and Wicker School.

official sound manager, whose help and equipment have been invaluable to them. The group of dancers this year were: Elizabeth Barnes, Kellye King (the only two Freshmen on tour), Catherine Hays, Catherine Ledner, Debbie Aschaffenburg, Cheryl Cossé, Wendy McCarthy, Sarah Wood, Patty Behre, Muir Bradburn, Sheri Bye, Arden Conover, Chris Katsirubas, Sherry Levy, Meg Leake, Kitty Loomis, Jan Norman, Liz Williams, and Carrie Pierson, the resident modern dancer. After much anxiety, hard work and practice, the reward came when the dancers saw the excitement and appreciation of the children.

Christmas 1977 saw celebrated performances by the Upper School Chorus and Girls' Ensemble, the Lower School Carolers, and the senior class. Regrettably, the singing group pictures were unusable, and their space was allotted to the Senior Christmas Skit, the Patty Behre version of A Christmas Carol.

Varsity Basketball

The 1977-78 basketball team faced the great challenge of defending the Louisiana class "A" state title. After losing eight seniors and retaining only three members of the 1977 championship squad, the Cajuns took on the toughest pre-season in the school's history, and definitely the most formidable of any class "A" school in the state. This demanding pre-season schedule served to prepare the Cajuns for successful district play. The competition developed the Cajuns' defensive and offensive tactics, later proving profitable against district opponents. The team-oriented style of play led the Cajuns to an undefeated season in district 7-A, and another step closer to the state championship.

When I was a kid, my mother always made me carry a bullet in my right shirt pocket. I never knew what it was for; until one day, I was walking down the street when a mad Evangelist hurled a Gideon Bible out of a hotel window, hitting me squarely in the chest. If it hadn't been for the bullet, the Bible would have gone straight through me.

This intelligence-testing business reminds me of the way they used to weigh hogs in Texas. They would get a long plank, put it over a cross-bar and somehow tie the hog on one end of the plank. They'd search all around till they found a stone that would balance the weight of the hog and they'd put that on the other end of the plank. Then they'd guess the weight of the stone.

Looking only toward the sky,
One might trip on something.
Looking only toward the ground,
One might bang his head.
But looking toward the horizon,
Neither high nor low,
One may see all obstacles in his path
In order to avoid them.

The

It was the best of times, it was the worst of times, it was the age of wisdom, it was the age of foolishness, it was the epoch of belief, it was the epoch of incredulity, it was the season of light, it was the season of darkness, it was the spring of hope, it was the winter of despair, we had everything before us, we had nothing before us, we were all going direct to heaven, we were all going direct the other way — in short, the period was so far like the present period that some of its noisiest authorities insisted of its being received, for good or for evil, in the superlative degree of comparison only.

Wishes to Thank:

Page Tiller, Tomiko Long, Barbara Wick, LaWana Stewart, Mark Levin, Kathryn Schulze, Sue Jarrett, Kate Hotard, Merrill Hall, Katherine Steiner, Mrs. Gebrowsky, Charles Saltzman, Bob Demaree, Alice Taylor, Sally Hays, Fred Elsing Jr., The Senior Class, Patty Behre, Jan Norman, Elaine Nelson, and most of all, David Favrot, without whom most of the pages would be blank.

Special thanks to Col. Wight for his valued assistance without which things would have been very different as they are.
